

LC-Ready study groups increase usage and engagement all while creating a bit of friendly competition within and between groups. You can view group stats to see how much a study group is using the app as well as leader stats including most mastered study cards and best test score. The study wall provides a central place for communication between your study group members.

From the STUDY GROUPS tab on your dashboard you create a new study group, join a study group, and see a list of study groups you have created or joined. Note that if a student creates a study group you will only be able to view stats if they have invited you to join the group.

Study groups are created based on a particular app. In order to join a study group the user must already own the app.

Enter the name of your study group and invite students to join. Click Add Participant to add additional users and complete the setup by clicking the green CREATE STUDY GROUP button.

I'll say!

The study wall appears within the app when a student is using it, allowing students to ask questions about a particular question or topic as it comes up.
